MOOD:  amused

MUSIC: oops.

I'm sorry I was late to work today.

A bunny ate ~~my homework~~ the cord on my alarm clock.

Love,

 trollcatz (<https://trollcatz.livejournal.com/>)

Thank you

...And there goes the weekend

But hey, we got a day and a half of this one! And I got to sleep in for two whole mornings. Too bad

Today I shall be witty, charming and elegant.
Or maybe I'll say "wooh" a lot and trip over things.

Did the bunny survive?

Tiger, tiger, burning bright
In the bedroom of the night,
What too-mortal agent deep
Dared frame thee for her oversleep?

What about the apology you owe me?

There are chewies! Healthy, virtuous, entertaining chewies all over the house!

Apparently they're only entertaining when we're watching. After that, it's nummy zip-cord time.

Our previous cat ate the computer mouse. It was hard to be annoyed when it was so apt.

...I wish I had your excuse. (It is far too early for me to be at work).

my bunny used to do that too.

(not the alarm clock though, just the tv, stereo, VCR....)

silly bunny

I also shared living space with an electrivorous bunny, many years ago.

Recommend protecting all power cords, and going wireless where possible. If you have a high-tech friend, they will usually provide massive assistance for the price of scoffing at how you've managed to survive so long on last-century technology. (With luck, food can substitute for scoffing. At least mostly.)

Never succeeded in bunny-proofing the living room, though. Years later, we were still finding half-chewed cords. I wish you better luck with the cords, and as-good luck with non-shocked bunnies and non-flaming short circuits.

Thank you
